

Friday November 16th

4:00 pm-6:00 pm

Hotel & Room (t.b.a. in “At a Glance – Times and Locations of all events” on front-page of SSCS website)

Society for the Study of Christian Spirituality

Teaching for Justice: Research and Teaching Strategies in Higher Theological Education

Given that we are to live and work toward justice within most faith traditions’ perspectives, how does our scholarship and practice encourage “teaching for justice” within institutions of higher education? A panel of scholar-teachers will respond to this question with observations (via programming, syllabi and/or course assignments) from their research and teaching of spirituality. For more information, please contact Anita Houck at ahouck@saintmarys.edu.

Friday November 16th

7:00 pm-9:30 pm

Hotel & Room (t.b.a. in “At a Glance – Times and Locations of all events” on front-page of SSCS website)

Society for the Study of Christian Spirituality

Dying to Live: A Film and Conversation about Spirituality on the Borderlands

How does “crossing the border” affect one's spirituality? In this session, the short film “Dying to Live” will be shown, followed by a panel discussion with Mexican migrants and others whose lives are profoundly shaped by the tense reality of the U.S.-Mexican border. All are welcome to attend and to stay after the discussion to view displays and share conversation. For more information, please contact Anita Houck at ahouck@saintmarys.edu.

Saturday November 17th

9:00 am-11:30 am

Hotel & Room (t.b.a. in “At a Glance – Times and Locations of all events” on front-page of SSCS website)

Society for the Study of Christian Spirituality

Presidential Address and Business Meeting

9:00 a.m. “Lost in the Mystery of God: Childhood and the History of Christian Spirituality”

The 2007 Presidential Address by Stephanie Paulsell (Harvard Divinity School)

10:30 Business Meeting

Mary Frohlich (Catholic Theological Union) President-elect, presiding

All are welcome. For more information, please contact Anita Houck at ahouck@saintmarys.edu.